

J. RUSSELL LOVE, OF IRMA IS NOMINATION CHOICE OF U.F.A. & U.F.W.A. CONVENTION

The U. F. A. Convention held in the Elite theatre Wainwright on Thursday last, was well attended, delegates being present from practically every local in the constituency H. E. Spencer was elected to the chair, and the opening with O Canada.

The chairman explained the reason of calling the convention, at the same time denied a rumor that he was favoring one or the other party, but assured his hearers that no party whatever had any strings on him.

Political Action Decided Upon
There was considerable discussion as to the advisability of putting a candidate in the field. It was argued that the U. F. A. was not prepared to enter the political field, and to do so would be a big mistake from the farmers point of view, as there were already two good men out. Federal politics should be their aim.

The Stewart Government was the best government for the province. To fight the provincial election they would be defeated and possibly discouraged. Mr. Priestley of Wainwright said their movement was spreading like a prairie fire and thought that preparation would be proved by winning in Edmonton, and so being the reader for the Federal election.

Delegate Roden of Chauvin in reply claimed that the Stewart Government was good and had always stood to help farmers, it was not so much a farmer government that was wanted as the real good government. The question must be discussed from the philosophic point of view. Mr. Roden believed that the Stewart Government was a state.

Mr. Roden also spoke strongly against the Imperial Oil Co., getting control of north country. He thought that coming sessions of government would prove to be forces between townsmen and farmers when help was needed for federal politics.

Priestley said the reason why Stewart was not being opposed was that he was at heart a U.F.A. man. The U. F. A. was an idea for betterment of whole country of agrarians, and the democratic spirit of people and must stand up, and not stand aside in either provincial or federal matters.

Another speaker claimed that only when the U. F. A. got strong enough did that government look-out for farmer candidates. J. G. Clark, Irma, thought if majority of convention voted to put candidate in the field all would stand by U. F. A. Mr. Wiley Sulphur Springs, said the reason for wanting a U. F. A. candidate was a desire to turn machine politics, to a real live working body at Edmonton.

Mrs. Armour who crossed swords with the majority feeling as expressed, thought speakers seemed to outline such a condition as millennium.

The motion on being put to the delegates was carried by vote of 79 to 7.

U. F. A. Platform
After lunch the chairman explained that on account of deciding to take political action, that it would be necessary to adopt a constitution. The constitution adopted by Vermilion was read and accepted.

The provincial political platform form was read to the meeting and carried.

The formation of Wainwright U. F. A. Political Association was proceeded with the following were elected—
President—Rev. N. F. Priestley Wainwright.
1st Vice-President Mr. Wiley Sulphur Springs.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Miller Leatholme.
Directors—Messrs Toth, Lasell, McDougall, Hill, Scott and Ford.

The following were the nominees for provincial candidates: Geo. L. Hudson, Wainwright; J. W. Wiley, Sulphur Springs; J. G. Clark, Irma; Mayor Lally, Wainwright; J. R. Love, Irma.

Mayor Lally asked that his name be with drawn. Fearing some party trick each nominator was called upon to eulogise his nominee, and all gave their reasons in no uncertain manner and were well received by an indulgent audience. Nominees were given 15 minutes each to speak; Mr. Hudson was called to address the convention. He suggested that possibly they were surprised to see him at this gathering. In the past he had been aligned with old line parties, but today things were vastly different. This was the day of the democrat and his turning from the old party was no death-bed repentance. He had followed independent lines in the House since his return from the front, he had not succumbed with others because he had kept faith with those who elected him.

Since the House dissolved he had held the attitude of a free press and account of short time in the platform which he won for campaign purposes. Endeavors had been made to kill farmers movement, but the machine organisation of the Stewart Government had been unable to do this so had "hurled from the blue" the mandate for an election.

The U. F. A. platform was one which he knew from observation could be worked in unity, but dictated from a few would throttle the best work of all from provincial standpoint. There was nothing in the platform which he would not fully endorse. He made his attitude very clear on points of natural resources.

Mr. Wiley said he had no idea that he would be a nominee for high office; and was fully in accord with party's platform because he considered it was the nearest to true democracy. Machine government had been proved philosophic point of view. Mr. Wiley also spoke strongly against the Imperial Oil Co., getting control of north country. He thought that coming sessions of government would prove to be forces between townsmen and farmers when help was needed for federal politics.

E. A. ticket should be upheld on account of it being the only just proposition for the worker on the farm.

Mr. J. C. Clark, Irma suggested betterment of whole country of agrarians, and the democratic spirit of people and must stand up, and not stand aside in either provincial or federal matters. He strongly criticized Mr. Hudson's change from Conservative to Independent and wanted to know if the convention did nominate him would he with draw and work for the U. F. A. Candidate.

Hudson stated that he was in the fight to the last whether nominee of U. F. A. or not, but was a desire to turn machine politics, to a real live working body at Edmonton.

Questions came thick and fast and for a few minutes there was something of an uproar.

Mr. Priestley asked if Mr. Hudson was a member of the U. F. A. because if not he was not eligible for nomination. Mr. J. H. Clifton secretary of Wainwright U. F. A. said Mr. Hudson had not paid his dues this year.

Mr. H. E. Spencer, the chairman then called Mr. Hudson to the platform and announced to him that as the constitution required that a nominee be a member of the U. F. A. a member of the U. F. A. could not be entertained.

Mr. Clark on renewing his address, said he was disgusted with Hudson's decision to run whether the farmers wanted him or not, he had thought that Hudson was really wanting to stand for U. F. A. but if the way Mr. Hudson had expressed himself was what that gentleman meant, then God help the U. F. A. movement.

Mr. J. R. Love, Irma, considered it an honor to enter the political arena in the cause of the U. F. A. He always stood for democracy and political fairplay, and saw it as his duty to bring a spirit into the farming community which would make an absolute success of their political fight.

The farmers surely had the right to see a government which was of Alberta was one which would at least defend the rights of those who were the real back-bone of the country and especially the West—the farmers.

Manifesto of U.F.A. Candidate
To the Electors of the Wainwright constituency.

Ladies and gentlemen—Having been honored by being chosen as the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. candidate for the coming election in the Wainwright constituency, I solicit your loyal and earnest support in the present campaign.

I appeal to the merchant and professional man as well as to the farmer, because the interests of the one are the interests of the other. I believe the electors have the right to recall their representative if he proves disloyal to the cause for which he is elected. I believe the farmers' platform upon which I stand is founded on sane and logical principles, and is designed for the general welfare and progress of all classes of people.

If elected I may make mistakes—no man is perfect—but I will do my very best to serve faithfully and wisely the interests of the people whom I should be called to represent.

Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) J. R. LOVE.

MR. GEO. L. HUDSON

Mr. George L. Hudson, who was the sitting member in the last Legislature for the Wainwright constituency, and who again seeks your Vote and Influence at the polls on July 18th, says:

I ask no favors, but simply desire to set straight the false impression that I even contemplated taking advantage of being nominated by two parties. I was approached by delegates from all over this riding asking if I would accept the U.F.A. nomination, and I plainly made it known that I would do so; but I also just as plainly made it known that I was in the field to stay—no matter what happened at the convention.

I frankly admit that to save the time of the convention I should have made this doubly clear to all before taking the platform, but I have no apologies to offer for my past record and assure one and all of a square deal to all if favored with your further support.

Thanking you for your past confidence, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) GEO. L. HUDSON.

ALBERTA'S PREMIER ADDRESSES ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT THEATRE

Wild enthusiasm greeted the entrance of Premier Stewart at the theatre on Monday, when he spoke to a crowded audience in behalf of Major Strachan.

Dr. Wallace in introducing the Premier made announcement of his acclamation return in Sedgewick, which was received with heart y cheering.

Mr. J. Love, re U.F.A. candidate was given the courtesy of the platform, and he was listened to with attention.

Major Strachan, the Stewart government candidate, who was given quite an ovation when he rose to speak, said that he was backing the former administration entirely on the merits of its past performances, and felt sure that all their efforts had been expended to produce legislation which had been proven best for all the people of Alberta.

It could not be gaisaid that in such a young province as this progress must be the watchword and this was what the Stewart government had ever had before them, and for this reason that party was the logical one to return to power. There was no justification for any slur against the government, because its past deeds had proved that it stood for all that was best for the province and its citizens.

Mrs. E. L. Hill, of Edmonton, who certainly had a crowd with her all through, speaking on behalf of Major Strachan, appreciated the honor of addressing a meeting on his arguments for she pointed out dangers in this election which were not patent on the surface.

There was the great danger of ignorance of the issues—the big point being the difference of substituting a new, untried form of government for the old present party of recurrent to power.

Another dangerous element to be considered in this light was the one of the independent, for surely if independence meant to be independent; it must mean that such an one would be responsible to nobody but himself.

The speaker took up such as class government and creed control, and expressed herself that such lines of reasoning could not possibly do the most good to the most people.

Rising to speak, the Premier thanked all for the opportunity of upholding before such an audience the principles which he and his party stood for. It was encouraging to him to see such a large interest taken in the election, and he felt sure that the votes cast next Monday would prove to be the will of the majority of the citizens of this province.

He mentioned that Mr. George Hudson had always been a close sat in opposition, and thought the day had passed when men should be attacked on their personal standing. He did not agree with the U.F.A. movement, as it appeared to be a class or group movement, and therefore could not be in the best interests of all of the people. Despite the fact that the U.F.A. party seemed desirous of forming a government in the province, that was not the idea of their leader, Mr. Creer, who had advocated that it might be well to leave provincial politics alone, and so concentrate the efforts of the party on federal work.

In dealing with the platform of the U.F.A. he showed that all of these planks had been the subject of legislation long before an election was ever thought of, and practically most of these were being worked out right now by different departments. Long ago they had departed from purely partisan government, and as all knew they had worked together along the lines of a big commercial organization.

He dealt at length with the road question, and pointed out that although the roads in Wainwright constituency were not of the best they would yet beat a few in other places. He said he knew from experience that Public Works department would be only too ready to assist any or every municipal council in having them take up the making of their own roads under the supervision of the department, and in this he was following out what he had proved to be the best at the time when he was minister of that department.

The same people who were at this time grumbling at expenditures were those who wanted the roads and everything else fixed, but it was foolish and far from truthful to say that these problems could be achieved by the expenditure of little sums of money and things must be faced fairly and squarely, and the electorate wisely informed on the question of expenditures.

He was an optimist, through and through, and he desired his hearers to fully understand that same optimism would consider ways and means as rigidly as is possible under all circumstances. This he had always done, and he was convinced that with a return to power of such a government that he had in the last parliament Alberta would make itself through its agriculture and the policies which had been outlined by that government for the furtherance of agricultural pursuits and schemes.

Dealing with the matter of education, Mr. Stewart said that he was sure that all bore him out in his belief that this was the biggest problem of any government anywhere. It was of the most vital importance to any nation that its younger generation must be provided with the very best opportunities for the advancement and progress of the country as a whole. To this end the government had instituted the agricultural colleges of the province, and without doubt, these institutions young as they were—had already justified their existence.

At the close of his address the Premier was greeted with a perfect storm of applause, following which a few questions had been asked and answered, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

"Oh, hang it all—yes. Of course you may come. To-morrow at ten—if they don't shut you up before." With a boyish laugh Mr. Stanley G. Fulton leaped to his feet.

"Thanks. To-morrow at ten, then." At the door he turned back again. "And say, Ned, what'll you bet I do grow fat and young over this thing? When you bet, don't get so I can eat real meat and 'aters again!"

CHAPTER II. Enter Mr. John Smith.

It was on the first warm evening in early June that Miss Flora Blaisdell crossed the common and turned down the street that led to her brother James's home.

The common marked the centre of Hillerton. Its spacious green lawns and elm-shaded walks were the pride of the town. There was a trellised bandstand for summer concerts, and a tiny pond that accommodated a few boats in summer and a limited number of skaters in winter. Perhaps, most important of all, the common divided the pleasant East Side from the more pretentious West. James Blaisdell lived on the West Side. His wife said that everybody did who was anybody. They had lately moved there, and were, indeed, barely settled.

Miss Blaisdell did dressmaking. Her home was a shabby little rented cottage on the East Side. She was a thin-faced little woman with an anxious frown and near-sighted, peering eyes that seemed always to be looking for wrinkles. She peered now at the houses as she passed slowly down the street. She had been only once to her brother's new home, and she was not sure that she recognized it, in spite of the fact that the street was still alight with the last rays of the setting sun. Suddenly across her worried face flashed a relieved smile.

"Well, if you ain't all here out on the piazza!" she exclaimed, turning in at the walk leading up to one of the ornate little houses. "Mr. John Smith, is that you?"

"Oh, yes, it's grand, all right," nodded the tired-looking man, who, in the chair, removing his feet from the railing. He was in his thirties, and was smoking a pipe. The droop of his thin shoulders matched the droop of his thin shoulders—and both indefinably and unaccountably suggested disillusion and discouragement. "It's grand, but I think it's too grand—for me. However, daughter says the best is none too good—in Hillerton, eh, Bessie?"

Bessie, the pretty, sixteen-year-old daughter of the family, only shrugged her shoulders a little petulantly. It was her mother who was already on her feet, pushing a chair toward her sister-in-law.

"Of course it isn't too grand, Jim, and you know it. There aren't any really nice houses in Hillerton except the Pennocks' and the old Gayford place. There, sit here, Flora. You look tired."

"Thanks. I be—tired—tired. Warm, too, ain't it?" The little dressmaker began to fan herself with the hat she had taken off. "My hat is fur over here, ain't it? Not much like 't was when you lived right round the corner from me! And I had to get on a hat and gloves, too. Some-way, I thought I ought to—over here."

Condescendingly the bearded head threw an approving nod in her direction. "Quite right, Flora. The East Side is different from the West Side, and no mistake. And what you do there won't do here at all, of course."

"How about father's shirt-sleeves?" There was a scornful glint from Bessie in the hammock. "I don't notice any of the rest of the men around here sitting out like that."

"Bessie!" cried her mother wearily. "You know very well I'm sure to blame for what your father wears. I've tried hard enough, I'm sure!"

"Well, well, Hattie," sighed the man, with a gesture of abandonment. "I supposed I still had the rights of a freeborn American citizen in my own home; but it seems I haven't. Resignedly he got to his feet and went into the house. When he returned a moment later he was wearing his coat."

TOBACCO HEART

Every Smoker Read This

Tobacco does not seem to affect all alike. Many men enjoy their smoke, live to a good old age and apparently suffer no ill-effects from the use of the weed.

There are others though, on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results.

It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, and irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, and causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy so equal as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco.

Mr. D. McKillop, Coxsack, N.S., writes:—I was using too much tobacco, and got so I could not sleep at night, my hands used to tremble something awful, and I suffered terrible from pains in my heart. I told a friend about it, and he advised me to get your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they gave great satisfaction.

Entirely New Treatment For Bronchitis, Catarrh No Internal Medicine To Take

Years ago the profession fought Catarrh by internal medicine. They put the stomach and didn't treat the trouble. The modern treatment consists of breathing the medicinal vapouring essence of Catarrhoxone, which goes instantly to the source and the trouble. Catarrhoxone is a success because it penetrates where liquid medicine can't go. The balsamic vapour of Catarrhoxone drives out the germs, soothes the irritation, relieves the cough, makes Catarrhal troubles disappear quickly. For bad throat, cough, bronchitis, Catarrhoxone is a wonder. Two months treatment one dollar. Small size 50¢. Sold everywhere. The Catarrhoxone Co., Montreal.

veranda railing, gave a sudden indignant snort. Benny was eight, the youngest of the family.

"Well, I don't think I like it here, anyhow," he chafed. "I'd rather go back and live where I do now. I can have some fun there. It hasn't been anything but 'Here, Benny, you mustn't do that over here' since we came. I'm going home to live with Aunt Flora. See, I'm going home!"

"Bless the child! Of course you can," beamed his aunt. "But you won't go, will you, Benny? You love me, Benny. I think I'm perfectly lovely here."

"Indeed I do, Benny," corrected his father hastily. "It's very nice, indeed here, of course. But I don't think you should go. We had to squeeze every penny before, and now we're going to meet this rent I don't know how to pay it. You'll have to just be here."

"You're a business," asserted his wife firmly. "Anyhow, we've just got to be here. I'll tell you, Benny, I love myself and our family. Look at that night!"

"Well, yes, where is Fred?" queried Miss Flora.

"He's over to Gussie Pennock's, playing tennis. The mean old thing wouldn't ask me!"

"But you ain't old enough, my dear," soothed her aunt. "Wait; your turn will come by and by."

"Yes, that's exactly it, triumphed the mother. "Her turn will come if we live here. Do you suppose Fred would have got an invitation to Gussie Pennock's if he'd still been living on the East Side? Not much he would! Why, Mr. Pennock's worth fifty cents a dollar."

"They are some of our very first people," Hattie, money isn't everything, dear," remonstrated her husband gently. "We had friends, and we were happy. We had friends, and we were happy. We had friends, and we were happy."

"Yes, but you wait and see what kind of friends we have now!"

"But we can't keep up with such people, dear, on our own ground!"

"Ma, here's a man! I guess he wants—somebody!" It was a husky whisper from Benny.

James Blaisdell stopped abruptly. Bessie Blaisdell and the little dressmaker looked at him curiously.

"Mrs. Blaisdell rose to her feet and went toward the door. She was an air of defiance and apology. As he took his seat, he saw that Bessie, it was seen that his eyes were blue and friendly, and that his hair was a top of his head, and rather scanty on top of his head."

"I am looking for Mr. Blaisdell," he murmured hesitatingly.

"Something in the stranger's deferential manner sent a warm glow of importance to the woman's heart. Mrs. Blaisdell was suddenly reminded that she was Mrs. James D. Blaisdell of the West Side."

"I a Mrs. Blaisdell," she replied a bit pompously. "What can we do for you, my good man? She swelled again, half consciously. She had never called a person "my good man" before. She rather liked the experience."

"The man on the steps coughed slightly behind his hand—a sudden spasmodic little cough. "He very gravely reached into his pocket and produced a letter."

"From Mr. Robert Chalmers—a look of gratified surprise came into the woman's face."

"Mr. Robert Chalmers, of the First National?" she turned to her husband joyfully. "Here's a note from Mr. Chalmers. Quick—read it!"

Her husband, already on his feet, whisked the sheet of paper from the unsealed envelope, and adjusted his glasses. A moment later he held out a cordial hand to the stranger.

"Ah, Mr. Smith, I'm glad to see you. I'm glad to see any friend of Bob Chalmers. Come up and sit down. My wife and children, and my sister, Miss Blaisdell, Mr. John Smith, Mr. John Smith, Mr. John Smith. (Glancing at the open note in his hand.) He is sent to us by Mr. Chalmers, of the First National."

"Yes, thank you, Mr. Chalmers was so kind. Still with that deference so delightfully heart-warming, the newcomer bowed low to the ladies, and made his way to the offered chair. "I will explain at once my business," he said then. "I am a geologist."

"What's that?" It was an eager question from Benny on the veranda railing. "Pa isn't anything, but ma's a geologist. 'Hush, child!' protested a duet of feminine voices softly; but the stranger, apparently ignoring the interruption, continued to speak.

"I'm sure I don't see why he should. We don't keep boarders!"

"But, Hattie, we could," interposed her husband eagerly. "There's that big front room that we don't need a bit. And it would help a lot if it were the wealthy woman in his wife's eyes he felt back indeed."

"I said the lady didn't keep boarders," reiterated the lady distinctly. "Furthermore, we do need the room ourselves."

"Yes, yes, of course, I understand," broke in Mr. Smith, as if in haste. "I think Mr. Chalmers meant that perhaps one of you—'he glanced uncertainly at the anxious-eyed little woman at his left—'might be accommodated by me. Perhaps you now—"

"He turned his eyes full upon Miss Flora Blaisdell, and waited. The little dressmaker blushed painfully.

"Me? Oh, mercy not! Why, I live all alone—that is, I mean, 'you know,' she stammered confusedly. "I dressmake, and of course, I don't get any sort of meals—not fit for a man, I mean. Just women's things—tea, toast and riz biscuit. I'm so fond of riz biscuit, of course, you—"

"She came to an expressive pause. "Oh, I could stand the biscuit, so long as they're not health biscuits," laughed Mr. Smith genially. "You see, I've been living on those and not water quite long enough as it is."

"Oh, ain't your health good, sir?" The little dressmaker's face wore the deepest concern.

"Well, it's better than it was, thank you. I think I can promise to be a good boarder, all right."

Training Newspaper Men

Management of a Newspaper Requires a Great Deal of Executive Ability.

A School of Journalism depends a great deal on the men at the head. Undoubtedly it is just as important to train leaders of thought in social, political and economical questions as it is to train leaders of religion, medicine and science. The difficulty is to combine the theoretical with the practical. There is a widespread view that anyone can be an editor, and the running of a paper is not a hard job. The fact that 146 newspapers went out of existence in this province in the last half-dozen years would indicate that the management of a newspaper requires a great deal of executive ability, careful judgment and foresight.

It is not a task the public generally imagine. Undoubtedly the establishment of a School of Journalism in some of our larger centres would be worth while. Similar schools in the United States have met with a large measure of success.—From the Farmers' Sun.

Best Place For Young Man

B.C. Government Will Assist Intending Settlers in Northern Part of Province.

Increased settlement in the northern central section of British Columbia is the aim of the provincial Minister of Agriculture. As a result of his investigations into conditions as pertaining to the settlers in that section, the Land Settlement Board will assist settlers in financing their purchases of livestock, thereby elaborating on the system which has hitherto been in vogue. He points to that portion of the province as the ideal place for the young man ready to work and with a limited capital.

Manitoba Assists Farmers

Province Loaned More Than Four Million Dollars In 1920.

The province of Manitoba has loaned farmers more than $4,150,000 for agricultural purposes during 1921, according to figures obtained at the Parliament Buildings. The loans made were: Purchase of seed grain, under the Seed Grain Act, $1,000,000; rural credits loan, $2,400,000; farm loans, $750,000.

The farm loans boards at the present time applications before it for loans amounting to another $750,000. The provincial savings bank, operated by the government, is advancing several hundred thousand dollars for the rural credits and farm loans.

An Ancient Tragedy.

From Brussels, Belgium, comes a grim tale of love and passion happening 1,500 years ago. It was uncovered by laborers who were digging in Escham Street when they found in a cistern apparently dating from the pro-Roman period, the skeletons of a man and a woman. Beside their bones were found two primitive daggers and an axe.

British Columbia Bonds. Sell British Columbia bonds to the amount of $3,000,000 have been sold. The bonds are 4 per cent. Government guaranteed, and the price was $93.11. It is understood this money will be used on the construction of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, an don the repair of certain provincial highways.

Eiffel supplied $700,000 and the French Government $300,000 for the building of the Eiffel tower.

Hindenburg Statue For Sale

Wooden Framework Advertised In Berlin Paper For Firewood.

"Glorious news," wrote the paper, "on one, each to a different fate," writes the "Chronicle" Berlin correspondent, Mr. G. Renwick.

"Students burn regimental colored rather than see them restored to the honour of whom they were taken. The great day of the 'Lazzy Grete' the great French gun captured in 1870, which stood for half a century down at the foot of Unter den Linden, went home again."

"Now it is the 'Iron Hindenburg' you remember, the Iron Hindenburg, of course. This great wooden statue of the field-marshal was erected during the war at the end of Berlin's Avenue of Victory. The idea was to cover it with a coating of nails."

"You remember the Iron Hindenburg, of course. This great wooden statue of the field-marshal was erected during the war at the end of Berlin's Avenue of Victory. The idea was to cover it with a coating of nails."

"But people got tired of the business, just as they got tired of the war. The statue was never entirely covered with its coating of iron."

"But it was always an eyesore in the courts regarding the honor of having first thought of the statue, the junk, ungainly effigy rusted and rotted."

"When all Germany's Wilhelmian was sold, the statue, most tragic of all, stood. Even the revolutionaries of November, 1918, had not the heart to pull it down. Perhaps it was because of all the men of the old regime, this man it represented kept his head, at least, in the flood of change."

"But it was always an eyesore, and one night, a year ago, it was quietly removed. No one knew what had become of it. No one asked. There were no questions in Parliament. The thing remained a secret until today."

In a Berlin paper in the advertisement, that, being translated, read: 'Iron Hindenburg. For sale, whole or in part, for firewood. Apply, etc.'"

"Will the junkers not make an effort to save this statue, once a symbol of victory? Is there no one to take this historic burden from the burning? I doubt it."

Excavators Have "Dust Chills"

Hours of Labor in Ruins Results in Illness.

The work of archaeologists uncovering the Aztec ruin in Northwestern Mexico is not all pleasurable excitement, says a correspondent. In addition to desert sun and reptiles, the excavators have to face 1,000 years old muck. The slow excavation of centuries of years and ruins. The latest movement of the foot caused a puff and the first shovel stroke a cloud that soon became unbearable. Under such conditions sponges and masks must be used. The muck is not only its penetrating power. But the worst is the "dust chills." For some reason, not yet understood, hours of labor in one of these dust holes results in illness, the chief symptom of which is a nervous chill, more or less recurrent for several days. Excavations in open rooms are less trying, but even there the fierce heat of the sun and the ordinary dust of the dry soil are enough to deter all but enthusiasts of the expedition.

A New York paper tells of a crowd that blocked the passage of pedestrians on a busy thoroughfare before the window of a store wherein was displayed a more than farm house with appropriate farm belongings.

That was all—just a simple picture of a farm home, such as country districts everywhere present in reality; but it caught the crowd, calling up visions of old home prosperity and contentment.

Such a picture always appeals to people of the cities—especially the idle crowds that tramp the streets day and night and live from hand to mouth.

A farm house with well filled barns means three hearty meals a day and rest and friendly shelter at night to the city's hungry and homeless ones.

Yet these things are just what they might have in exchange for the work which goes to the winning of them, and within a few hours' journey from the city's crowded centres—From the Atlanta Constitution.

Big Price For Prize Wheat. Thirty dollars for a bushel of wheat? That is what W. S. Lowan, of North Dakota, paid for a bushel of Early Triumph seed wheat purchased from the "Wheat Wizard," Seager Wheeler, of Rosedale, Saskatchewan. There were express charges of $3.00 in addition. Mr. Wheeler has figured among the top prize winners in wheat exhibits for years at the Canadian agricultural exhibitions.

Most of them were destroyed by torpedo attack from submarines without warning. The lives lost in these sinkings numbered 199. The greatest loss of life in one case occurred at the sinking of the S.S. Shutting Out The Air

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

On a warm day, in a New England University town, I noticed, recently that few homes boasted window or door screens. In the four hundred homes I looked at I found but two screen windows. In six cases the windows were opened, but no screens impeded the access of flies, mosquitoes, and gnats. In every other case the windows were tightly shut.

In some cases the windows were beautifully curtained behind the highly polished window glass. In other cases the shutters were half drawn. But the salient fact was that the windows were shut. There were no screens.

And the windows in the back of the houses were shut. I know they were, for I walked round to the back of more than several dozen houses, to the vexation of more than one flea-ridden dog.

The women gave various excuses. One sought to keep the place cool, to keep the heat out; another told me she had several small children and didn't propose to let the dust in. One told me she could not afford to buy screens yet. This woman bought the most luxurious food in the town and encouraged her daughters to dress expensively.

All of the women I interviewed, with their children, showed the lack of fresh air. They had actually arrived at a state of mind where they valued a rug and a bit of wall paper more highly than Heaven's free ozone. They preferred impure air to the possible presence of a little dust.

Do you, Mrs. Housewife, belong to this class? Do you have a screen in every window? And if your rooms are particularly warm, how about getting some awnings?

We can live without food for some time. We cannot live without air for even a short time.

Compressed Wheat. An odd suggestion comes from England as to conserving wheat. It is proposed to crush or grind wheat, then soften with superheated steam and compress in hard blocks and store until wanted, when a simple crushing process would fit it for flour manufacture.—Scientific American.

Plain Misters Rule Empire Canada As A Seat Of Learning

Premiers of the Empire at London Conference Are Most Democratic. There are now no prime ministers in the Dominion who are burdened with the prefix "Sir." The last of them was Sir Lomer Gouin, a Newfoundland, unlike Canada, did not promulgate a "self-denying ordinance" in regard to knighthoods, and so her prime minister, Richard A. Squires, was created this month a K.C.M.G. He is the only prime minister in the Western Hemisphere who is a British knight; while the only one in the Eastern Hemisphere so honored is the premier of Tasmania, Sir Walter H. Lee. The Premier of Great Britain is a plain "Mr." And the premiers of the Empire who meet in conference in London are Messrs. Lloyd George, Meighen, Hughes, Smuts and Massey.—Toronto Star.

A Matter of Looks. A homely young English chap having his view obstructed by the headgear of the girl in front of him, ventured to protest. "See here, miss," he said, leaning over, "I want to look as well as you."

"Oh, do yer?" she replied, in a rich Cockney accent, as she turned and looked him square in the eye, "then you'd better turn 'em and change yer face!"—Boston Transcript.

Our slogan for the coming year should be "Buy at Home." Add to your own and your neighbor's prosperity by keeping the money circulating in our own district.

The total area estimated to be sown to wheat in Canada for the harvest of 1924 is 18,654,100 acres, according to preliminary estimates issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Of oats, the total area sown is placed at 15,295,000, a decrease of 4 per cent. from last year. The area sown to barley amounts to 2,456,000 acres, rye 698,500, and hay and clover 10,545,000 acres.

Making History.

INFANT MORTALITY in past ages has been something frightful, something almost beyond belief, and even today it occupies the time and the mind of leading physicians in all countries. The death rate among infants is being gradually reduced through new methods of hygiene, new preventatives and new remedies for infants. This reduction in the death rate has NOT been accomplished by adapting the precautions taken and remedies used by adults. Rather has it been to keep clear of the old methods, and choose after long research the precautions and remedies specifically applicable to infants.

This being so, is it necessary for us to caution mothers against trying to give her baby relief with a remedy that she would use for herself? Will she remember that Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for infants and children?

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Of Course You Love Your Baby. You love it because of its very helplessness, because it can't tell you what the matter when it feels bad. It can only cry and look to you for help. But the more you love baby, the more you want to help baby, the more you ought to realize what a wonderful remedy Fletcher's Castoria is. It has been used for babies' ailments for over thirty years.

An experienced doctor discovered Fletcher's Castoria especially for babies' use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrup. Doctors who know what is safe and best for babies have only good to say of it.

Don't neglect your baby. Get a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria and give baby a few doses of it. See how the little one smiles at you as if trying to thank you for helping it. Soon you will learn to depend on Fletcher's Castoria, made just for infants and children, and of course you would not think of using anything for them that was not prepared especially for infants and children. So keep it in the house.

WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA, JULY 13th, 1921

LOOKING BACKWARD

Fifteen years of a Liberal regime in Alberta have created an imposing structure of legislation that has admirably met the needs of all classes of the people in the province as far as reasonably possible, and which in many respects has become the model for other progressive provinces of Canada.

Citizens of Alberta may well boast that this province after a cycle of fifteen years since autonomy, has set out to write its history in a bold and steady hand.

In its school policy Alberta has also blazed the way. Rural educational work is being encouraged to the last cent the province can spare in such work, high school facilities are being carried into the country by means of special grants; two-room schools and teachers' residences are making for greater efficiency and permanency in the rural field; special financial aid is given weaker districts; consolidated high schools are made available as well as consolidated elementary schools, and liberal grants are made for carrying on the schools.

In all cases involving special grants for technical work and manual and domestic training, The University of Alberta is becoming one of the best amongst the provinces, and the normal schools by means of government grants where necessary and the problem of teachers' supply has been placed in a promising way of solution.

Legislation relating to the benefit and protection of the laboring classes is also on an advanced scale while kept well within the bounds of reason and caution.

While taking special precautions in the interest of the miners, the government has also come to the assistance of the mine operators and by systematic campaigns opened markets in the neighboring provinces for Alberta coal.

The payroll in the coal mines of the province in 1920 amounted to over $20,000,000, while over $7,000,000 tons of coal were produced to the value of $3,919,240.

It is now proposed that in order to better cope with the needs of the province in this respect that a department of labor be created by the government, with a deputy minister of labor in charge. This is planned for the consideration of the next legislature.

Taking into account the appropriation for 1921 the public works department has spent $6,650,000 on the roads, bridges, and ferries in Alberta since 1917. All automobile license receipts are expended in highway improvement.

While in some quarters party leaders have been attempting to make a political football out of the natural resources question, Premier Stewart and his cabinet have been quietly but firmly bringing reason and pressure to bear on the federal authorities and as a result Ottawa promises that some definite proposition will be made to Alberta by Premier Meighen upon his return from England.

On a scale equal to the policy of railway guarantees the Alberta government has now won wide commendation by launching the program of full bond guarantees for irrigation and drainage projects which obtain the approval of the legislature.

ELECTION ADVERTISING

Letter From Mr. J. G. CLARK

In Support of J. RUSSELL LOVE

To the Electors of the Wainwright constituency.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

In view of the fact that my name was more or less in evidence as a possible choice for the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. convention in Wainwright, I wish to congratulate the delegates on their choice.

The electors of Wainwright are a man well qualified to represent their interests whether urban or rural. Any man who is qualified by natural brightness of intellect quickened and refined by an university education and is at the same time imbued with a love for far life and work is certainly a combination that should appeal to all thinking people as well suited to represent us in the management of our public affairs.

The three qualifications that are said to be found in the other candidates, viz.: Returned man, bona fide farmer, and member of U.F.A., are undoubtedly found in our candidate, Mr. J. R. Love.

Added to these is his energetic disposition in athletics in his college days and in every sphere of action we find him well to the fore. His position as president of the University Y.M.C.A. at Edmonton at the time of enlistment, placed him in a position to go overseas with the rank of captain in similar work in the army.

This work proved too monotonous for a young man of Mr. Love's temperament and he preferred to serve in the ranks with his comrades as a gunner.

During the days of intense fighting that made Cambrai such a familiar word to Canadians, Mr. Love's services were sufficiently recognized to procure for him a recommendation for a commission, but feeling the end was in sight he stayed with his comrades to the finish rather than go to England for officers' training.

During the period of occupation in Germany Mr. Love's adaptability to circumstances again asserted itself and he served as interpreter between his officers and the Germans.

We overheard some expressions of opinion regarding our candidate after the convention—"Why he is a mere schoolboy; just a kid. Too young and inexperienced."

Let us see! J. R. Love is 20 years of age. Many of the leaders of government in this and other countries entered public life as very young men; to my mind this is a decided advantage.

Young men have less to unlearn in experience Mr. Love's travels and facilities of observation have been worth more to him than the life-time of the average farmer. He was one of a group of nine Canadians that were chosen to tour England, Scotland and Wales at the expense of the British government for the purpose of gaining knowledge in agricultural matters. Many weeks were spent in visiting the best breeding establishments of the Old Land—where we all have to go for foundation stock.

During the period of demobilization he was privileged to attend Edinburgh university where he studied agriculture and political economy. The fact that Mr. Love chose this way of spending his time overseas when not on war duty goes to prove his quality of mind and his fitness for leadership in the affairs of his country.

A word to U.F.A. members in particular:—Our opponents will make strenuous efforts to divide our U.F.A. membership by the argument that all the candidates are farmers.

Don't be side-tracked! This is the testing time. Be true to yourselves and to your own organization.

Personally I believe that if chosen as your candidate I would have rendered acceptable service otherwise I would not have allowed my name to come before the convention. Mr. Love's ability to give expression to his views was unknown to me until I heard him at Wainwright, consequently I had not thought of him as a candidate.

I most heartily endorse his candidature and expect to see him head the polls on the 18th.

Yours sincerely,

ADVT. (Sgd.) J. G. CLARK

WEDDING BELLS

BARTLETT-SCOTT

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Anglican church at Heath, on Tuesday, July 5th when Mr. Albert Bartlett, of Arm Lake was united in matrimony to Miss Edith Scott of the same place.

Long before the service took place the little church was filled with friends of the contracting parties, it having been prettily decorated with a profusion of summer roses and house plants, and Mr. Tom Wilkinson, jr., played suitable music while awaiting the arrival of the bride party.

The service was semi-choral, the officiating minister being the Rev. H. Wilson, M.A., vicar of Wainwright.

The bride was led to the altar by her father, her sister Elsie acting as bridesmaid, while Mr. J. Bartlett acted as best man.

The bride wore a bead trimmed gown of silk georgette with full veil, and carried a shower bouquet, and after the ceremony the party motored to the home of the bride's mother where Mrs. Scott received a large number of guests.

At the nuptial feast the Vicar proposed the toast of the bride and groom, this being very warmly received as they are both well known in the district.

Later in the evening a large number of invited guests were entertained in the Arm Lake schoolhouse, which little affair finished up with a pleasant dance.

The presents were both numerous and costly.

OLIVE THOMAS IN NOVEL SEA DRAMA

The big feature attraction at the Elite theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week is Olive Thomas in a new Selznick picture, "Out Yonder," just written and made under the direction of Ralph Ince.

"Out Yonder" is a novel drama in that practically all the scenes are laid in and about a stately lighthouse on a rocky reef in the Atlantic.

It is a story of stormy coasts and sunny hearts with Olive Thomas in the role of "Flotsam" the daughter of the keeper of the light. The action is fast and absorbing, introducing new scenes new faces, new charm and new plot. Miss Thomas has an excellent supporting cast including Huntley Gordon, Mary Coverdale and others.

After a long and tedious trip from the Old Land, Mr. Alexander and family are spending a holiday here with their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Alexander on the farm.

Miss Ada Coffield is away to Biggar these days for a short stay.

ADVERTISING
"Isn't it funny," asks the Gilliam (Chap.), "that the man who thinks he is a business man will get up in the morning from an advertised mattress, and shave with an advertised razor, take off advertised pajamas and put on advertised underwear, hose, shirt, collar and tie, seat himself at the table and eat advertised breakfast food, drink advertised coffee, put on an advertised hat, light an advertised cigar, go to his place of business and turn down advertising on the ground that advertising doesn't pay."

A great many men make a success of life after they pass 60—but it's poor policy to plan to wait until that age to start trying.

THE SPORTSMAN'S CREED
I believe that a good sportsman should—
1—Never in sport endanger human life.
2—Never kill wantonly, needlessly or brutally.
3—Obey the laws of State and nation, work for better laws and uphold the law-enforcing authorities.
4—Respect the rights and feelings of farmers and property owner.
5—Always leave seed birds and game birds in cover.
6—Never be a fish or a game hog.
7—Discourage in every way the taking of game and game fish for commercial purposes.
8—Study and record the natural history of the wild life in the interests of science.
9—Love Nature and its denizens and be a Gentleman.

SCHEME FOR COLONIZATION

Editor, The Star.

I am going to use the columns of your paper by the invitation of your editorial of a previous issue.

Some time back, in the issue of May 11, their appeared in the heading of one of your articles "A square deal for the settler is the aim of the Western Colonization Association," by J. W. Duff, editor in chief of the Manitoba Free Press. Part of the article read "the Western Colonization Association will devote its energies primarily to inducing the right kind of settler to come to Canada. It will do this work in co-operation with every agency existing or hereafter to be called into being and devoted to the same purpose. The more the better provided the work towards a common object and co-operate to this end." I believe this has been endorsed by some governing bodies of this district. I would like to inform the readers that talking is cheap. It takes money to buy whiskey. It will allow, if something can be done to induce settlers to buy or rent these idle farms, it would be a blessing and a boon to any district where these lands are vacant. There are several unoccupied farms around this district, which if occupied, would be a blessing to the community. To get settlers on some of these farms, would require a great deal of money and time. Many of these farms are very prairie or land which has been allowed to grow up in weeds and would not likely give any returns for two years from the time of occupation, for these lands would have to be prepared the year before it was put in crop. Then, before the farmer could begin to handle the crop, he would have to provide himself with an outfit that would most certainly tax his resources. To build a dwelling house and barn, fence land, buy machinery and the price of machinery these days is no small item—a small binder costing $300.

I am speaking from experience, having been a farmer of Western Canada since 1911, when I had to pack the necessities of life on my back, the distance of the nearest town being twenty miles. I had to pack enough to last a month. Coal oil was an unheard of luxury in those days and we had to use candles and torches. I have worked with oxen on my farm early and late, waiting until I could afford horses. I have economized in every way and still am not making a fortune. Your readers must understand that farming is nothing but a gamble against adverse weather conditions and crop failures—I will allow, like all other trades and businesses where one fails another will make a fortune.

I would suggest that owners of such waste and idle farms should help the settler out in this way, that they sell or rent the land free of interest, for two years and then only take a small part of the capital at the end of that term. I would, you think reader, had you ten thousand dollars to invest you would take up this kind of land, it was hard enough in my time, a free homestead for 10 dollars, but was it a free homestead. I was compelled to build a 300 dollar house and break 30 acres of land, crop twice, and live six months of each year, for 3 years on this land. I could tell your readers a number of experiences, cast away from the world as you say, and would not see or speak to a human being for a month.

I would support the Western Colonization Association in every way possible, but I am afraid a lot of these farms are held up by mortgage companies, and unless these lands are sold, in some cases below the mortgage price, I am afraid that gophers and weeds will reign supreme for some time to come.

I would like to see some other reader contribute to your columns suggestions of some other ways and means of getting these lands settled.

For my part, I am greatly interested in this work, as these lands are certainly no use to the owners and by getting the right kind of settlers, would not only be improving the country and district to which they belong, but would be a source of revenue to all concerned.

You will pardon me for writing this long article, though you certainly have no excuse to make Mr. Editor, for your editorial called for it in a previous issue.

Hoping to see some comments on this important topic, by some of your readers.—Constant Read-

VOTE FOR J. RUSSELL LOVE
The U.F.A. & U.F.W.A. Candidate

The following is the platform of the U.F.A. party upon which he seeks your suffrage.

"Believing that the present unsettled conditions in Canada politically are due in large measure to dissatisfaction with the party system of government and 'Believing that present day political institutions fail to measure up to the requirements of present day conditions in that the present system has failed to develop a sufficiently close connection between the representative and the elector, and that the people desire a greater measure of self-government. 'Recognizing the rights of all citizens, believing that it is the duty of every citizen to exercise his rights of citizenship in the most efficient manner and in the best interest of social progress, and believing that individual citizenship can only be made efficient and effective through the vehicle of systematically organized groups."

"We, the United Farmers of Alberta, base our hope of developing a social influence and a progressive force on becoming a stabilized, efficient organization. We therefore place primary emphasis on organization."

"Our organization is continuously in authority, and while through it we formulate declarations of principles, or a so-called platform, these are at all times subject to change by the organization."

"We are groups of citizens going into political action as an organization. Our elected representatives are at all times answerable to the organization. Each elected representative is answerable directly to the organization in the constituency that elected him."

"We aim to develop, through the study of social and economic problems at intelligent, responsible citizenship."

"Thus organized citizenship becomes the vehicle not only of intelligent voting but also of intelligent guidance of elected representatives."

"A full recognition of the supremacy of the organization in all things does not nullify the importance of a platform. Recognizing this importance, we submit the following:

Reconstructive

1. Representation of all classes of the community in the legislature according to their numerical strength. This to be brought about through proportional representation; and a preferential ballot in single member constituencies.

2. We endorse the principle of the initiative, referendum and recall.

3. That thirty days' public notice be given before the issuing of the writ for any provincial election.

4. That no government be considered defeated except by a direct vote of want of confidence.

5. The administration of the affairs of the province with the greatest measure of the economy that is consistent with efficiency.

6. Abolition of the patronage system in the conduct of all provincial business.

7. That a highways commission be created whose function it will be to supervise and control all provincial road work and expenditures for that purpose, which commission shall supplant the present method of party control and patronage.

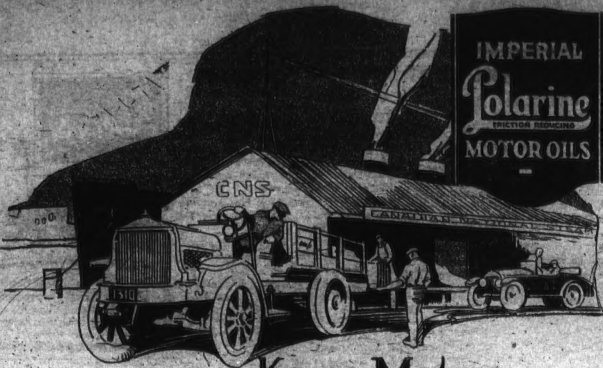

8. Education: To provide as far as possible equal opportunities for all the children of all the people, by gradually extending and improving educational facilities.

9. Public health: Adequate provision for the maintenance of the health of the people as the duty of the government.

10. Prohibition: To enact and enforce such legislation for the control of the liquor traffic as the people may sanction by referendum. Prohibition is an integral part of the farmers' platform and the U.F.A. will use its influence in that direction.

11. Natural Resources: We stand for the immediate handing over of the natural resources by the Dominion to the province of Alberta and the conservation and development of these for the benefit of the people.

12. That encouragement be given to co-operative efforts in the marketing and handling of the products of the farm, and along lines calculated to reduce the cost of production, distribution and living.

Why Should The United Farmers of Alberta

Oppose The

Stewart Government?

Premier Stewart is one of the best farmers in the Province.

The Provincial Government has enacted more legislation in the interests of the farmers than any other government in Canada.

The platform of the U.F.A. is almost identically the platform of the Stewart government.

All classes and sections have received the utmost consideration at all times from Premier Stewart and his cabinet.

The government has been progressive and business-like.

Critical times are ahead and the government is prepared to cope with these problems in an experienced and careful manner.

WHY, THEN, SHOULD PREMIER STEWART BE OPPOSED?

Remember what Hon. T. A. Crerar, national leader of the organized farmers, had to say when he addressed the U.F.A. convention in Edmonton, January 20th, 1921, as reported

"Mr. Crerar pointed out that the business of government—he cared not whether it was a municipality, a province, or in the wider federal field—was a business that would engage the attention of every honest citizen, no matter what his calling or occupation might be, and consequently, that being the case, he for one was willing to take common ground with the other man, whatever his profession might be, so long as he believed in policies that he, the speaker, believed in, and who was willing to work with him for those ends."

"That does not mean that the position of your organization, or of any farmers' organization, is challenged," said Mr. Crerar. "It would be a thousand pities if we were to do anything in Canada to day that would destroy the integrity and effectiveness of the farmers' organization. Your U.F.A., as your president has pointed out on many occasions, must continue its existence and life as a farmers' organization, built up as such; but let me say this—when you get into the wider field where you are dealing with matters of vital importance to all the people of the country do not refuse the support and assistance of the man who is willing to work with you toward that end. You will fail in your final purpose if your motive is to seek power alone for the sake of power. It would be a fatal mistake if we became animated with the desire to acquire power in government merely for the sake of having it."

CRITICAL TIMES IN THE ERA OF REESTABLISHMENT ARE STILL AHEAD
—THE WORDS OF HON. MR. CRERAR CARRY A NOTE OF GRAVE WARNING
—THE STEWART GOVERNMENT HAS AN UNCHALLENGED RECORD OF SPLENDID PUBLIC SERVICE. WHY NOT STAND TOGETHER AND WORK TOGETHER?

Freedom Of Trade Returning To Russia Through British Influence

London.—At the annual meeting of the Russo-Asiatic Consolidated Company, considerable light was thrown upon the recent political and industrial developments in Russia.

Leslie Urquhart, chairman, declared it was no secret that the British trade agreement with the Soviet Government had a profoundly moderating influence on the Soviet policy, and had been the compelling force at the Communists' congress in March, which induced the Soviet Government to issue a decree re-establishing the freedom of local trade.

Since the date of the decree, many small industries have been denationalized and returned to their owners, who are allowed to trade freely with their products. Forcible corn requisition has given place to corn taxation. The law now permits open barter between peasants and town-workers, and admits the principle of private gain.

Many extremists have been dismissed from the Soviet Government, to make room for moderate men, and others have in practice renounced their communistic ideas. Gradual elimination of economic restraints mark the beginning of the re-establishment of favorable conditions for capitalistic development in Russia.

NEWS SERVICE FROM BRITAIN IS STRONGLY CRITICIZED BY PREMIERS

London.—Sharp criticisms of the slowness of communications by steamship, airplane, telegraph and wireless between Great Britain and the Dominions were voiced at a session of the Imperial conference, at which a decision was reached to appoint a committee to consider the development of communications throughout the Empire.

The official text of the speeches delivered at the meeting were expressions of disapproval of world distribution of news through the United States.

Premier Hughes, of Australia, made an unfavorable comparison between the British wireless service and the German installations that were in operation before the war, as well as those at present existing in the United States. He said the United States was conducting wireless services to Great Britain, France, Norway, Japan and Germany, and was arranging to cover other fields. He declared the United States was daily radiating in every direction, not only United States news, but united concepts of world events, and instanced the transmission of such news to China, which he said, formed the opinion of the British Empire thereon, while Great Britain did nothing. He contended that if Great Britain and the Dominions failed to increase wireless telegraph and wireless telephone services in the immediate future, they would fall far behind other countries.

Premier Meighen, of Canada, said that while Canada had less cause to complain than Australia and New Zealand, her exchange of news with the mother land was unsatisfactory.

Drought Afflicts Wide Area

Conditions Especially Alarming in Quebec, Ontario and Maritime Provinces.

Ottawa.—Conditions are rapidly becoming alarming in Quebec and Ontario, as well as in the Maritime provinces, owing to the drought, the agricultural department states. Pasture is drying up and hay is scanty to the point where the cattle industry is already severely threatened, it is said. Rains in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, as well as in Northern Alberta, make the prospects for the prairie provinces very satisfactory. Southern Alberta has had rain also, the department says, but it has come, as far as a considerable area is concerned, too late. Conditions there, however, are much improved generally.

A Farmer's Book

Drury, Morrison and Other U. F. O. Leaders Will Collaborate.

Toronto.—One of the Christmas books this year will be an autobiography of the United Farmers of Ontario. Premier Drury is writing of the movement as a whole, J. J. Morrison has been assigned to write the political aspects of W. L. Smith will outline the early Agrarian movement, Col. J. S. Fraser will tell of farmers' experience in running a newspaper, W. C. Good will reveal the economic reasons for the U. F. O., and Mrs. George Brodie will write of what the United Farm Women of Ontario have accomplished, and hope to do yet. M. H. Staples, the U. F. O. director of education, will edit the volume and prophesy what will happen to the movement in the future.

Black Rust Menace

Damage to Crops Is Feared By Government Officials.

Winnipeg.—Reports that have been reaching here from different parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan that black rust had been detected on the growing wheat are now substantiated by Government officials, says a Winnipeg newspaper. The newspaper says that several samples received from a number of points in the west have proved conclusively that the infection is widespread.

Damage to the crops depends on the weather during the next week or two, but the fact that black rust has made its appearance at this early date is considered serious, but not alarming, the paper continues.

Report Oil Find On Vancouver Island

Victoria.—The existence of oil on Quatsino Sound at the north end of Vancouver Island, is reported by B. W. Leeson, customs officer at Quatsino, who has arrived here. Samples of oil shale have been forwarded to Ottawa for Government analysis, Mr. Leeson stated.

Amundsen Will Sail For North Pole

New York.—Captain Amundsen is going to try and arrive here after his rescue from the Siberian coast, the Norwegian explorer was quick to say that he would repair his damaged ship Maude, and go north again next summer to freeze into the polar flow and start his Arctic drift, which he expects will take five years.

Economic Loss To Britain

Seventy Million Dollars Were Lost Over the Coal Strike.

London.—Seventy million working days lost to the nation and £18,000,000 of extra expenditure incurred by the Government, are the official estimates computed in connection with the economic situation caused by the coal dispute.

The defense force army of reservists cost £270,000,000 and the railways claim £9,000,000 against the State for May alone.

The emptiness of the State coffers is demonstrated by the surprise announcement in the House of Commons that a new and unlimited issue of treasury bonds at 97 and bearing interest at the 5½ per cent. is urgently needed to meet obligations maturing in the next few months.

Three hundred million pounds of debts has to be dealt with instead of the one hundred million originally budgeted for. The new bonds being put out for eight years, thus giving time for a gigantic financial operation at a more reasonable opportunity.

Farmer Leaders' Tour

Waiting to Learn What Dates Can Be Arranged With Hon. T. A. C. Crerar.

Toronto.—The tour of the Big Three farmer leaders is still up in the air. Premier Drury and J. J. Morrison have been waiting to learn what dates could be arranged with Hon. T. A. C. Crerar.

Today word was received at U.F.O. headquarters to the effect that Mr. Crerar could not promise any definite time as yet, but that he still was making efforts to attend the Canadian Council of Agriculture, which opens its session in Toronto on July 26. If he is able to do so, the speaking tour will probably be made late in July or early in August.

Reclaim Land in B.C.

Work Will Be Carried On By British Columbia and Idaho Governments.

Victoria.—Reclamation of 100,000 acres of agricultural land in the Kootenay Flats, one-third of which is in British Columbia and the balance in Idaho, was discussed at a conference here between Premier Oliver, John T. Pattullo, minister of lands, and Governor Baker, of Idaho, and W. G. Swenson, of the Idaho reclamation commission.

It is expected the reclamation work will be carried on jointly by the British Columbia and Idaho Governments, but Ottawa and Washington will have to be consulted.

Strength Of Empire

Tolerance Is Secret of British Success, Rabbi Hertz States.

Vancouver.—Speaking before the Canadian Club here, Very Rev. Joseph H. Hertz, chief rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregations of the British Empire, declared that the latitude and longitude of spirit in British institutions is the secret of British imperial success. By latitude, Dr. Hertz explained, he meant the broad spirit of tolerance that obtained throughout the empire in general and in Canada in particular by the habit of taking an age-long view of things.

"The British Empire," declared Dr. Hertz, "is not built up on machine guns."

The effect of the British system upon the races that make up the empire, he illustrated by the loyalty of the Jewish race, which sent 50,000 to fight for her in the late war.

Irish Earl Still Missing

Police Believe Place of Detention Is Changed Daily.

Belfast.—Although numbers of the police and military are searching the country in search of the Earl of Bandon, who was kidnapped at Bantry, County Cork, June 21, when his residence, Castle Bernard, was burned, no trace has so far been found of him. It is believed here that the place of his detention is changed daily, and that he is being held as a hostage for the safety of some condemned republicans.

Real Thrill at Calgary Fair

Calgary.—Eight thousand people, the largest grandstand crowd of the present Calgary exhibition, were given a real thrill during the automobile races when a Mooney special, driven by Uorke Larson, threw a wheel when travelling close to 60 miles an hour.

The car ploughed through the dirt for 30 feet, while Larson turned a few somersaults but fortunately escaped uninjured.

Airships For Forest

Two "Blimps" Will Be Used in the Lake of the Woods District.

Camp Borden, Ont.—Two airships of the blimp type were shipped recently to be used by the Keweenaw Lumber Company in the Lake of the Woods district. Under the direction of Lieut. Col. Mulock, D.S.O., formerly of the naval air service, they will be used for forest patrol work, as well as aerial photography. They are being loaned by the air board so that reports on their capabilities may be made by the company.

Canada To Share

In Reparations

Basis Likely to be on Expenditure of Country and Number of Casualties.

London.—The conference of Prime Ministers are grappling with the problem of reparations. Under the plan reached by the Supreme Allied Council, the Empire receives twenty-two per cent. of whatever Germany pays, fifty-five per cent. going to France and the balance to Belgium and Italy and the other allied nations. The task now confronting the conference is to fix a basis upon which the amount to be collected by the Empire shall be apportioned among its different parts.

This, it is being found, involves no little difficulty. It involved difficulty because a basis that might work advantageously for one dominion might prove unfair to another. Thus, for example, if loss of shipping were to be made the basis, the mother country, which suffered so heavily in tonnage, would get practically everything and the dominions nothing.

No decision was reached, but it is understood that it is not improbable that the amount will be determined by expenditure and the number of casualties. This, it is believed, would be satisfactory to Premier Meighen as, in view of Canada's comparatively heavy sacrifices, both in blood and treasure, it would ensure the Dominion receiving a fair share of whatever amounts are paid over.

As to what amount it may be found possible to collect from Germany, that, of course, is an entirely different matter. Sir Robert Hume, chancellor of the exchequer, who addressed the conference on the matter, requested that his words be held confidential, but there is good reason for stating that he was not over sanguine of any great sum being realized.

Morocco Troops Mutiny

Spanish Battery Driven From Position and Six Officers Killed.

Madrid.—Large contingents of natives have attacked and occupied a position in Morocco which was defended by a Spanish battery and two companies of natives who had been enrolled for service under the Spanish flag. The native companies mutinied and killed six officers belonging to the force occupying the position. The native contingents afterwards attacked another position, but were repelled after a sanguinary fight lasting 26 hours, during which they suffered heavy losses, including 100 killed, while the Spanish troops had three officers, including a major, and 30 men wounded.

These events, which have been made known officially, have produced a bad impression, because the public had come to believe that there could be no more serious fighting in Morocco.

Russia Wants Autos.

Paris.—Representatives of Soviet Russia have been feeling out the ground in trade circles in France with the view, they indicated, of placing orders for automobiles and other articles of commerce, but reports from commercial quarters are that they have met with little encouragement.

Flax Factory For West

Winnipeg.—Winnipeg is likely to be selected as a site of a $3,000,000 factory for the spinning and twisting of flax, according to R. J. Hutchinson, chief of the fibre division of the Federal Department of Agriculture, who was here enroute to Ottawa after visiting the principal flax-growing center in the west. Choice of location is between Calgary and Winnipeg, Mr. Hutchinson said. The erection of the factory will be begun early this fall.

German Officer Acquitted

Frenchman Shot in Cold Blood By Order of Officer.

Leipzig.—Dr. Schmidt, president of the Supreme Court, in announcing the acquittal of Lieut.-Gen. Karl Stenger, of the charge of having ordered the execution of wounded French soldiers and prisoners, and the conviction of Major Bruno Crusius on the same charge, declared that an experienced officer like Crusius should have known better Stenger was incapable of giving such orders. Crusius was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, and was deprived of the right to wear the German uniform in the future.

It has not been established that Stenger gave the order at which he was acquitted, said Dr. Schmidt. "The executions, which undoubtedly occurred, cannot be imputed to him." "Crusius was not responsible for his action on August 28, owing to the mental derangement, but on August 21 he was quite well and knew what he was doing. The actions of Crusius were due to negligence as he thought Stenger had given the order to finish off the wounded and prisoners. An experienced officer like himself, however, should have known Stenger was not capable of giving such an order."

During the course of trial, Dr. Stenger, an alienist, testified that Crusius had been sent home from the front on a nervous wreck. Crusius repeatedly told Stenger that "this complete collapse was chiefly due to the ghastly scenes witnessed on the battlefield in carrying out General Stenger's order to shoot wounded men and prisoners."

Britain Is Gratiified

Express Appreciation of Services Given by Governor-General

Ottawa.—A cablegram of appreciation of his services while governor-general of Canada has been received by His Excellency, the Duke of Devonshire, from the secretary of state for the colonies. The cablegram is as follows:

"His Majesty's Government have observed with great pleasure the terms of high appreciation in which your services as governor-general of Canada are acknowledged in the address presented to you at the closing of parliament and in the speeches on the address made in both houses. They are much gratified to note the recognition in all quarters of your devotion to Canada and Canadian interests during your term of office and the fact that you have thereby rendered notable service to the whole Empire. I should be glad if you will communicate this telegram to your government."

Gold Shipment Confiscated

Attempt at Exportation Frustrated by Buenos Aires Officials.

Buenos Aires.—Confiscation of gold valued at ten thousand dollars aboard the American freight steamer, Iron Bridge, prior to the departure of that vessel for New York, was announced by the customs authorities, who declared that they thereby frustrated an attempt at clandestine shipment of gold in violation of the decree prohibiting its exportation.

The money, will be divided, in accordance with long practice, among the customs employees who discovered it.

Bush Fires In Ontario

Toronto.—Although bush fires are blazing in dozens of places in Northern Ontario on both sides of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway east and west of Cochrane, no great conflagration has developed as yet, due to the fact that but little rain has fallen since the beginning of the north wind, which is a stiff wind springs up before rain comes to extinguish the flames, no section of the settled part of the north country will be free from the menace of fire out of control.

Census Returns Rapid.

Ottawa.—Returns from the census commissioners are coming in rapidly to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics according to a statement made by E. S. McNeill, assistant census commissioner. The census so far promises to be the most complete in the history of Canada.

Gardiner's Big Majority.

Medicine Hat.—Official count of the election held on the June 27, Robert Gardiner, National Progressive candidate, a majority of 9,749 over Col. Nelson Spencer, Government candidate, with still one poll to be heard from.

Hope For Peace In Ireland Seems Now Near At Hand

Alaska Warehouse Burned

Fire Caused By Explosion On Oil Tanker.

Cordova, Alaska.—Flames from an explosion on the oil tanker, Margaret, which destroyed the vessel, a wharf and warehouse at Katalla, were brought under control before they reached a refinery and several oil tanks, according to advices reaching here. The loss is estimated at $50,000. Three members of the Margaret's crew, severely burned, were brought here. It is believed that they will recover. Persons returning from Katalla reported that the community fought all night to save the refinery.

Have Faith In Rainmaker

Medicine Hat Makes Contract With Hatfield For Next Year.

Calgary.—So infatuated are the Medicine Hat farmers with "Rainmaker" Hatfield that the agricultural association of that district has contracted with him to "bring rain" in 1925. In the face of the fact that for nearly three weeks there was not a drop in his vicinity although moisture was urgently needed. They believe that he is responsible for the last general rains although the meteorologists mildly claim that these were due to natural causes and came all the way from the Alaskan waters. Hatfield has been guaranteed $1,000 an inch, and has earned approximately $4,000 for about two months' operation in the Chappie Lake district. Next year he says he will have two plants in the Medicine Hat area.

Only Farm Immigrants Wanted.

Montreal.—That, all immigration except that of farm labor should be excluded from Canada for the next two years, was the opinion of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council. It is the only dissenting voice to this motion.

My First Dog Driving

By O-G-E-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

I also specially adopted the native dress which is infinitely the best for the north. A dark blue 3½ ft. blanket cap, which came about halfway to the knee, and strange to say they were made without buttons but fastened with buckskin thongs and gartering. Then strong leggings, coming halfway up the thigh, made loosely and always with a fringe on the outside, white for every day and blue for festive occasions. These were always gartered firmly below the knee. Then best of all, a full-sized assumption belt of many colors which was girdled above the hips and formed a great support and also made the costume more varied. A huge pair of fur or moose skin mittens were always carried as a spare. These were fastened together by a thong long enough to go over the head. Gloves or light mitts were used when running, but if caught in a storm or lost track the big ones were essential.

The first experience a tender foot has when running is to sweat violently, by and here the ordinary wool sock will ruin him, for it is difficult to get where you tread and it is difficult and slow to dry. So I soon discarded them and adopted the oblong duffle or strand square, which can be dried in a minute or two at any stop and there are four changes, one at each corner of it. I still kept the legs of the wool stockings and simply cut the feet off.

There is another most important part of a dog driver's equipment, and that is the whip. The ordinary husky is as cute as a fox and quite often as wicked as a bear, so his respect for his driver is governed by the latter's ability to punish. A good whip is made of plaited deer skin thongs, over a round heart, which is loaded with soft tapering in size. Four, six or eight of these are used according to season. First-class whip makers were famous and found a ready sale for their whips practically at their own prices. The handle was of hardwood, sixteen to twenty inches long, and banded at the head. This was useful as a weapon if the dogs attacked you. Well, I have described the whip to the best of my ability, but how to use it is quite another matter. What hours I spent in practicing, and after some days did attain a certain measure of success, but was never a crack by any means.

It was a fearsome sight to see Johnny Beads when thoroughly exasperated by the conduct of his team, applying the whip. Upsetting his flat sled and placing his foot on the trace he would proceed to flay the culprit whose yells could be heard for miles, while his mates would join in for sympathy. At every stroke the hair would fly from the shoulders to the hips. The Russian Kung could not have been much worse. The whip, however, was not brutal, but a club was, and I have often interfered when the latter was used. Fortunately my own team were so willing and high-spirited that a whip was not necessary. Sired by a Scotch stag hound, their mother a husky, they all took after the father in disposition, and were the only first-class train I was ever lucky enough to own. The ship, however, was always necessary at feeding time to protect your own team. Two whitens was the day's meal for each dog and this was his breakfast, dinner and supper all in one for the camp fire.
